Brynjar Lia

Brynjar Lia (born July 14, 1966) is a Norwegian historian and research professor at the Norwegian Defence Research Establishment (FFI) where he is head of FFI's research on international terrorism and global jihadism.

Lia is viewed as one of Norway's foremost experts on terrorism and is much cited in Norwegian and international media in connection to Al-Qaeda and international terrorism. Lia's last book is about Abu Musab al-Suri, which has been reviewed in publications like Newsweek, The Economist, London Review of Books, and The New York Review of Books

ARCHITECT OF GLOBAL JIHAD

Significantly, in his recommended reading list for prospective jihadis al-Suri's book appears first.⁴⁵

Another significant promoter of al-Suri is a well-known web jihadi calling himself 'Ozoo0', who runs a web directory and several hosting sites for popular jihadi material, and participates frequently on jihadi webforums. From May 2006 till early 2007 'Ozoo0' has hosted and promoted a website containing most of Abu Mus'ab al-Suri's works.⁴⁶ The most persistent advocate of al-Suri's output is 'Muhammad Ahmad Khalaf', the supervisor of the madad al-suyuf webforum (www.almedad.com/vb), of which he devoted an entire section to al-Suri's training and warfighting doctrines.⁴⁷ 'Khalaf' is also the editor and promoter of 'The Mujahidin Talk' (al-mujahidun yatakallamun), a popular series of articles that have circulated on most jihadi web forums in more than fifty editions. Al-Suri has featured on at least half a dozen of these articles, and his books have been extensively cited.⁴⁸
